Captain Le Bond also deposed that Picquart, in October, 1896, connected Esterhazy with espionage. Colonel Picquart confronted the witness and

My blood will be upon your heads."] General Gouse said he desired to reply to Esterhazy's statements. During the course of his observations, the general said Esterhazy's allegation that he was the right hand man of the general staff was absolutely false.

The Mont Souris interview, Gouse continued, occurred in July, 1838. "But," he added, "as Major Du Paty de Clam and Lieutenant Colonel Henry left General de Boisdeffre and myself in the dark in regard to their move-ments, it was only by chance I heard of it from M. Gribelin. "Anonymous letters received in October, 1897, announced that a campaign was being organized against Esterhazy, mitted to go free at the time of the judicial inquiry it was by order of General Saussier, who would not accept the advice of the general staff nor of the offialone who compromised the entire headquarter's staff by imprudence." The general then attempted to explain the intervention of the headquarter's staff in the choice of Esterhazy's witnesses at the time of his prosecution by Colonel Picquart and said he, the witness, was convinced Paty de Clam was The general then attempted to explain only connected with the late Lieutenant Colonel rienry and not with Esterhazy He said it he had known it M. Gribe hin would not have been sent to Mont

M. Labori next asked that the dos sier in the Tavernier inquiry on Paty de Clam should be produced, whereupon the government commissary said: Task that the request be refused." Replying to counsel, the commissary said he hoped Paty de Clam would be able to appear in a few days.

M. Labori said he was greatly surprised that Paty de Clam had sent Esterhazy documents of which the former only ought to have had official cognizance. Did General Gonse approve of Paty de Clam's action? Did he defend the machinations of Paty de General Gonse-Never. Paty de Dlam was headstrong and excitable. After this M. Labori said he desired to know if General Gonse did not consider himself in some measure responsible for the proceedings of Paty de Clam The general replied in the negative and added that he was conscious that he had always done his duty.

When General Gonse was asked what he thought of Paty de Clam's interviews with Maitre Tezenas, Esterhazy' counsel, General Gonse replied: "Esterhazy was a sort of special pris ouer. He retained his liberty, not be-cause he was under the protection of the general staff, but because Gen. Saussier ook the occasion to defend himself. "I ask leave," he said, "only to tell the court that I give the most absolute contradiction to Esterhazy's evidence The evidence of Mlle. Pays, the friend of Esternazy, given before the court of cassation, was then read.

General Lebelin de Dionne, governor of the military college, then testified to Dreyfus' character at college. The prisoner, he said, displayed great intel-ligence, but had a deplorable temper. He recalled a remark of Dreyfus that the people of Alsace-Lorraine would be happier under German rule than under the rule of France.

Dreyfus explained that during his firs year at the military college he attained very high marks, that the second year he almost held his place, when, he added, he heard that a member of the examining board had declared at a board meeting that, without knowing the pupils, he put mark 5 opposite the of Dreyfus, simply because they did not want a Jew on the headquarter's staff. The prisoner thought that his protests against this would, therefore, be readily nuderstood.

Regarding his alleged remarks about Al ace-Lorraine, Dreyfus declared that the statement was the very opposite of his real sentiments

M. Lanquety, a mining engineer of Boulogue, who told the court of cassation that he had seen Drevfus at Brus seis during the summer of 1894, followed. The witness said that he could not now swear to when he saw Dreyfus The prisoner, rising, declared that is was in 1886, at the time of the Amsterdam exhibition, adding that was the only time he visited Brussels. "I met you, M. Lanquety," said Drey-fus, "at a restaurant in the St. Hubert reade. We exchanged a few words."

M. Lanquety admitted that the prisoner's statement was true.

anonymous letter, telling him to keep quiet and do nothing, but the minister of war refused to sanction it."

The general positively maintained that Esterhazy was never instructed in regard to what he should say at the inquiry conducted by General Pellieux, and, Gonse added, the assertions of Esterhazy on this subject were utterly devoid of truth.

the first of lanuary following I gave birth to a nine and a-balf pound boy, and was only in labor half an hour. There was no one with me at the time of confinement but my husband. I would advise expectant mothers to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription for it will shorten labor, and give greater relief than the doctors can. I would not say anything about the medicine if I had not made it.

terhazy on this subject were utterly devoid of truth.

General Gonse proceeded to refer to his avoidance of Esterhazy during the Zola trial.

"I considered him to be a compromising person," said the witness, "and I was not wrong. If Esterhazy was not wrong. If Esterhazy was not wrong. Sensitive, ailing women deserve the true sympathy and helpfulness that can only be extended to them by a physician whose wide experience renders him deeply appre-ciative of their sufferings and thoroughly familiar with the means of prompt allevia-
